

INUIT NUNANGAT RESEARCH PROGRAM

Calling all Inuit!

We are pleased to release this call for research ideas through the Inuit Nunangat Research Program (INRP) that is part of ArcticNet's North by North program. Do you have a concern or questions about your health and wellness, environment, wildlife, climate change or anything else that is important to you, your community, or your region?

If so, please submit your research project ideas by July 24, 2020: You can send your ideas by

- Email to INRP@itk.ca
- Film or video to INRP@itk.ca (try to keep under 5 MB)
- Or by phone in your preferred language toll free at 1 866 262 8181

Here are some guidelines to help with your research ideas.

- What is/are the research ideas you are hoping to answer?
- Who would you like to do the research?
- Where will the research take place?
- When will the research start and finish?
- How will you answer the research question?

Please let us know if you require assistance in the development of a proposal if your idea is accepted.

Questions or concerns, call or email your Inuit Research Advisors

- Nunatsiavut: Carla Pamak (carla.pamak@nunatsiavut.com)
- Nunavik: Lucy Grey (lugrey@krq.ca)
- Nunavut: Jean Allen (jallen@tunngavik.ca)
- Inuvialuit Settlement Region: Kendra Tingmiak (ktingmiak@inuvialuit.com)

Your research ideas will be reviewed by ArcticNet's Inuit Advisory Committee. If approved, you will be asked to develop a more detailed research proposal. Support will be provided, where needed, in the development of these more detailed proposals.

Funding for this program is provided by ArcticNet <https://arcticnet.ulaval.ca/>. Therefore projects must meet Network Centres of Excellence program requirements, for more information on these requirements please email INRP@arcticnet.ulaval.ca
